Adrienne Synatschk | Lamb County (chair)
Adrienne Synatschk is a teacher at Olton High School. She and her husband, Alton, grow corn, cotton and wheat on their farm in Lamb County. They also raise stocker cattle, maintain a cow-calf herd, and operate several custom agricultural businesses. Adrienne is a graduate of Texas Farm Bureau’s AgLead-FarmLead program, a two-year leadership development program, and the couple was a finalist in TFB’s Outstanding Young Farmer & Rancher contest. She serves as the chair of the YF&R Advisory Committee.

Giovana Benitez | Hidalgo County
Giovana Benitez fell in love with agriculture and the cattle industry growing up. She earned a bachelor’s degree in finance and economics and master’s degrees in ranch management and international agriculture. Giovana serves on the Hidalgo County Farm Bureau board of directors. She currently manages a cow-calf operation and runs a stocker operation with cattle sourced from local ranchers and sale barns.

Brandon Boerner | Hunt County
Brandon Boerner and his wife, Kaitlyn, are part owners and operators of their family’s fifth-generation farm. They grow wheat, peanuts, oats, and maintain a cow-calf herd in Grayson and Hunt counties. Brandon also works for SMA, Inc. – America’s Ag Parts Supplier.

Chase T. Brooke | Parker County
Chase T. Brooke is the Extension Program Specialist for Small Acreage Wildlife Management with Texas A&M AgriLife Extension & the Department of Rangeland, Wildlife & Fisheries Management. He is responsible for developing, implementing, and evaluating programs on small acreage property and wildlife management. He has served on the Collin County Farm Bureau board of directors and in various other volunteer roles in his community. Chase also works on his family’s ranch managing wildlife habitat and maintaining a robust native grass restoration program.

Jay Clark | Brown County
Jay Clark and his wife, Francie, raise beef cattle and hair sheep, as well as operate a feedyard in Brown County. They also own a land improvement business and event venue on the ranch. Jay is active in agricultural advocacy efforts, serving on the Brown County Farm Bureau board of directors and participating in Texas Farm Bureau’s AgLead program, a two-year leadership development program. The Clarks were finalists in Texas Farm Bureau’s Outstanding Young Farmer & Rancher contest.

Sarah Galloway | Dallas County
Sarah Galloway is an agricultural science teacher and FFA advisor in an urban school district in North Texas. She continues to help on her family’s farm growing forage crops and raising commercial cattle. She is involved with the Dallas County Farm Bureau and serves on the board of directors.
Emilee Haubner | Lampasas County
Emilee Haubner is the owner of WCD Agricultural Management Consulting where she mentors leaders in agriculture and shares how to steward the land and animals. In addition to her consulting business, Emilee raises commercial goats and trains horses. She is a passionate agricultural advocate and a fourth-generation farmer and rancher, as well as a professional speaker.

Morgan Hodges | Coke-Sterling County
Morgan Hodges and her husband, Kade, own and operate Hodges Livestock. They raise Royal White stud rams and replacement ewes, commercial cattle, and commercial goats. Morgan graduated from Texas A&M University with a bachelor’s degree in animal science and a minor in business. She is pursuing a master’s degree in beef cattle production with a minor in beef cattle nutrition from University of Nebraska-Lincoln and a certificate in ranch management and beef industry leadership from Angelo State University. Morgan serves on the Coke-Sterling County Farm Bureau board of directors.

Madalynn Kainer | Victoria County
Madalynn Kainer is the assistant manager at the Washington County Fair in Brenham. She graduated from Texas A&M University with a bachelor’s degree in agricultural communications and journalism and is currently completing her master’s degree from Texas A&M University in agricultural leadership, education and communications. She grew up on a row crop farm in Victoria County. Madalynn won the Texas Farm Bureau YF&R Discussion Meet and competed at the national contest.

Heston McBride | Lampasas County
Heston McBride and his wife, Stevie, are the owners and operators of AgroTech, an agricultural service business that specializes in hay and grass production, providing custom applications of fertilizer and herbicide. They also manage a cow-calf herd and grow hay in Burnet and Lampasas counties. Heston serves on the Lampasas County Farm Bureau board of directors, and the couple was a finalist in Texas Farm Bureau’s Excellence in Agriculture contest.

Mason Parish | Montgomery County
Mason Parish’s passion for agriculture started on his family’s small cow-calf operation in Montgomery County. He continues to assist his family with raising Santa Gertrudis cattle, while also advising small and large companies to improve business operations with a focus on agriculturally-related clients. Mason also serves on the Montgomery County Farm Bureau board of directors, and he and his wife, Shannon, plan to start an agritourism farm.

Tyler Schuster | Kinney-Val Verde County
Tyler Schuster is the manager of education at Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. Tyler earned a bachelor’s degree in agricultural services and development from Tarleton State University and a master’s degree in public service and administration from Texas A&M University. She has participated in Texas Farm Bureau’s Discussion Meet and serves as the Kinney-Val Verde County Farm Bureau YF&R chair. Tyler grew up on her family’s cow-calf operation in Kinney County and still assists with the farm today.

Jacob Silhan | Cochran County
Jacob Silhan began farming at a young age on his family’s farm in Cochran County. Over the years, he has grown several different crops, including wheat, grain sorghum, corn, black-eyed peas, peanuts, and upland and pima cotton. Jacob and his wife, Railey, operate a large row crop operation, and he serves on the Cochran County Farm Bureau board of directors.
Alton Synatschk | Lamb County
Alton Synatschk and his wife, Adrienne, grow corn, cotton and wheat. They raise stocker cattle, maintain a cow-calf herd, and operate several custom agricultural businesses. Alton also farms in a separate partnership with his two brothers and serves on the Lamb County Farm Bureau board of directors. Alton and Adrienne were finalists in TFB’s Outstanding Young Farmer and Rancher contest.

Jouwert Talsma | Franklin County
Jouwert Talsma owns and operates a dairy farm in Franklin County alongside his parents and sister. The dairy operation includes 300 milking cows, and they produce milk for Dairy Farmers of America. Jouwert primarily practices no-till farming and grows forage for feed. He also serves on the Franklin County Farm Bureau board of directors.

Lyndon Teichman | Archer County
Lyndon Teichman owns and operates a beef cattle herd and assists with the management of his family’s dairy farm in Archer County. He graduated from Tarleton State University with a bachelor’s degree in agricultural business. He is also a volunteer firefighter.